June 19, 2023, Auburn Hills, Mich. - Derek and Hannah Jeter are set to appear in the newest phase of Grand Wagoneer marketing launching this summer as part of the couple's long-term partnership with the brand. The 30-second spot, "Take Me Out," will run across television, social media and digital media channels.

"'Take Me Out' is a fitting anthem for our Wagoneer summer creative campaign," said Marissa Hunter, senior vice president of marketing, Stellantis North America. "Pairing this iconic baseball theme song with the Wagoneer lifestyle to organically share themes of adventure, freedom and American heritage is timed perfectly to the start of the baseball season and Derek's new role within the sport. Premium visual settings and experiences are captured to elevate the original song themes, delivering storytelling in a more powerful and meaningful way."

"Summer typically means family road trips, ballgames, campfires and adventures around every corner for the entire family, and the Wagoneer's legendary capability, premium American craftsmanship and modern mobility brings a new level of sophistication and excitement to our customers to fulfill that promise for the season," said Jim Morrison, senior vice president, Jeep brand North America. "As Derek and Hannah's family and horizons expand, we couldn't be prouder to have the Grand Wagoneer carry their family to wherever their travel takes them."

The 30-second spot features music from the iconic ballpark anthem "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," which showcases Derek and Hannah and some of their favorite hobbies and family moments, to drive home the message of "don't care if you ever get back." The spot will run across social media and digital media channels in addition to television, including major sports programming such as MLB baseball. Derek Jeter recently joined the MLB on FOX team, beginning with the 2023 season.

Both the "Take Me Out" and Grand Wagoneer "Eyes Wide Open" campaigns were created in partnership with Highdive agency in Chicago.
